Seek New Location.

Possible Union With Proposed The Local Electric Railway Be-Church on Washington Heights.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church last night declared itself in favor of moving to any suitable location that might present itself farther out in the northwest section of the city. A committee of seven was authorized by the meeting and appointed by the presiding officer, A. E. L. Leckie, to make inquiries and investigation and report back to the church. This sence of Clerk D. R. Stansbury, Councilaction was not taken until the whole quesits adoption a proposition for definite action at once, as well as a third motion that the position of superintendent of gas were the whole matter should be dropped, were

As soon as the meeting was called to order two resolutions were introduced, the first by F. G. Coldren, declaring that it of a horse. The report was unanimously would advance the future interests of the church by removing it to the northwest section of the city. T. F. Sargent immediately presented a substitute, which began by saying: "It is not now deemed expedient to remove the church." Mr. Coldren was recognized by the chair and spoke briefly to his resolution. He denied at the outset that there was any intention, so far as his resolution went, to force a juncture with the Presbyterian Church that is to be organized next Sunday on Washington Heights. He said, however, there was a bare possibility that things might shape themselves to this end in the future. Mr. Coldren said there was a discouraging outlook financially for the church in its present location, and he thought a removal would infuse new life and new material into the organization. In any event, he could see no way in which harm could come from his resolution, no matter what action might be taken on it action might be taken on it.

Speaks of the Finances.

Mr. Sargent then took the floor, saying as he rose, that he was somewhat amazed at the financial report which Mr. Coldren had just made. He said there was no deficit, and that the church had grown more in membership during the past year than it had for several years and was in a better financial condition than it had been for ten years. Mr. Sargeant predicted that even if the church should vote to change its location, the presbytery would not give its consent. The continual agitation for a change of location, he declared to be most disastrous to the good of the organization. Mr. Sargent was just remarking that it was not right for the First Church to force itself on the church to be established on Washington Heights, when he was inter-rupted by the chair, who ruled him "out of

"There is no proposition of that kind be-fore the meeting," said Chairman Leckie, rather warmly.

W. H. Fletcher here asked that the call of the meeting be read, but the chair said he had not a copy of it. An attempt was then made by Mr. Fletcher to show that the agitation for removing the church only started as a result of the organization of a new church. 'Chairman Leckie at once re-quested him to "be in order," whereupon Mr. Fletcher claimed the right to talk as he pleased. He had been a member of the church for more than thirty years, and thought that ought to entitle him to the right to express himself regarding its future. Chairman Leckie, however, remained firm in his decision, and said that unless of the three chairman leckies are the lines. The same of the lines and said that unless of the lines of the two societies will be bold in Light Hall on the school grounds. Mr. Fletcher obtained the unanimous consent of the meeting to continue he could not allow him to proceed. At this point unanimous consent was asked, but objection was promptly made, and Mr. Fletcher

Substitute Adopted.

Charles L. DuBois sent to the chairman's table what he termed an amendment to Mr. Sargent's resolution. He afterward substituted it for that resolution, in which form it was adopted as the sense of the meeting by a vote of 35 to 9. It provided that if at any time in the future the way believe it to be the part of wisdom to entertain favorably proposals from that section looking to the removal of the First Church to that locality, should it be decided that the best interests of the church at that time call for action; that a lookout committee of seven be named by the chair for the purpose of making inquiries and investigation, to report back to the church. In speaking of his resolution Mr. Dubois said the agitation for removal had been going on to his knowledge for at least a year, and he believed it would do no harm to have a committee appointed and on the lookout for a suitable location. Any definite action need not be taken now or in the near future, but he believed fa-vorable opportunities would present them-selves and should be taken advantage of. W. H. White followed with the suggestion that the meeting had been prematurely called. He reviewed at some length the financial condition of the church, in which he declared it to be no more than holding its own without counting the interest on the $18,000 mortgage which it was carrying on the building. He said no one knew what the building was actually worth, and no one knew what a new location would cost. He was not opposed to removal if it could be shown that it would be of bene-fit. At the conclusion of his remarks he made a motion to adjourn. The chair promptly declared that he hoped that motion would be voted down, which was done, Chairman Leckie, after requesting Rev.

On McLeod to take the chair, spoke at some length in favor of the proposition for removal. He was asked if conferences had not been held with a view to forming a combination with the new church, but de-clined to give any information on that point beyond saying that there had been some in-formal talk between representatives of the two organizations. However, he was more intent on getting a standing committee to receive propositions from various localities he said, than upon any specific proposition. He predicted that the First Church would receive invitations to go to marry places when it had put itself on record as being Favors Appointment of Committee. Dr. McLeod was asked to give his views at the conclusion of Mr. Leckie's remarks. He, too, was favorable to the appointment of a committee. He said Dr. Sunderland had told him that the church should have been moved farther into the northwest thirty years ago. It mattered not to him, however, he said, what action was taken. however, he said, what action was taken. He should work continuously for the good of the organization. The New York Ave-nue Presbyterian Church, he declared, had just appointed a committee to look for a new field, and he could not see how harm could come in any way if similar action should be taken by the First Church. This seemed to crystallize the sense of the meeting and a vote was taken, as stated above, the committee was appointed and the meeting adjourned.

The committee appointed by Mr. Leckie consists of Col. J. P. Low, F. G. Coldren, Charles L. DuBois, J. F. Tufts, Dr. H. L. Mann, Mrs. Isabelle Ashford and Mrs. Mary G. Hine.

Next to the last meeting of the present city council was held last evening with eleven members present. President Hubert man J. H. Trimyer acted as secretary pro tion had been thoroughly discussed, and in tem. The bills of $50 each for the three members of the board of examiners for ordered to be paid. A favorable report was made by the finance committee on the proposition to allow Chief Pettey of the fire department $120 annually for the care adopted.

The finance committee also recommended the appropriation of $1,025 for the purchase of a lot on the west side of Royal street between Cameron and Queen streets for the erection of a building for the Relief hook and ladder company. The report was yer. Mr. Burke inquired as to what had been done with the resolution for a reduc-tion of the police force. In reply it was stated that there had been no meeting of the joint committee to which the matter was referred. Mr. Lawler said he would try to get the members together and have a report ready for the next meeting.

Mr. Lawler Makes Inquiry. Mr. Lawler asked what had become of the resolution recently introduced, directing a committee to ascertain whether the state law requiring separate coaches on railroad trains for white and colored passengers applied to the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon railroad, Mr. Burke said it was the opinion of the committee that the local road was exempt, under the provisions of the bill. The matter was then dropped.

A petition was received, asking that the salary of the clerk of the city gas works be increased from $1,000 to $1,300 per annum. It was referred to the finance com-

MARKETING WESTERN FRUIT. Work of the Southern California Ex-Mr. A. H. Naftzger, president and manager of the southern California fruit exchange, with headquarters at Los Angeles, was before the industrial commission yesterday. He said that the association is purely co-operative and in no respect of the nature of a trust. It had been organized to avoid the uncertainties and irregularities of dealing through commission men, by which process many growers had been wrecked. This organization handles about 50 per cent of the citrus fruits of southern California and has been able to maintain a steadying influence upon prices. It makes no effort to control production, but members bind themselves to allow the exchange to control their entire product. The railroads, Mr. Naftzger said, no longer give rebates, but he was inclined to prefer the steady rates.

Mr. Naftzger said that California ships 50,000 car loads of fruit annually, and as-serted that many carleads were lost last season because of the shortage of cars. He also said that the California fruit growers favor the isthmian canal. He also took positive ground against the French and Jamaica reciprocity treaties.

Another witness of the day was Professor

Elwood Meade, irrigation expert of the Agricultural Department. Professor Meade gave many details of the extent of irriga-tion throughout the semi-arid region of the west, showing how, by its means, vast tracts of land had been reclaimed from the desert. He also reviewed the growth of laws governing irrigation, saying that when the settlement of the arid region began the settlers had been entirely ignorant as to what rules to pursue. As a conseas to what rules to pursue. As a consequence, there had been much confusion and litigation, but gradually a system had been built up, he said, which is fairly satisfactory, bringing about a very much improved certainly increasing, and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of Amer-

and Pneumogastric. In another way, also, the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half-digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action; hence arises palpitation and short breath.

PRODUCTION OF COAL. Largest Amount in 1900 Ever Recorded Any Year. Official reports show that the year 1900

closed the century with the largest coal production ever recorded in the United States and continued the supremacy of the United States among the coal producing countries of the world. Practically completed returns to Edward W. Parker, statistician of the United States geological survey, show the total output of coal in 1000 to have been 267,542,444 short tons, an increase over the preceding year of 13,-802,452 tons, or a little more than 5 per

The value of this product was $297,920,-000, an increase of 16 per cent over 1839. Coal producers felt a much greater benefit from the improved trade conditions in 1900 than in either 1898 or 1839. Coal contracts are usually made a long time ahead, sometimes more than a year, and much coal was delivered in 1899 at less than it cost to produce it, the price of labor having advanced before the operators could advance the price of coal. The value of the coal product in 1900 (the value being free on board cars at the mines) was equal to nearly one-third of the value of the total mineral product of the United States

Maryland, Oregon and Idaho were the only states whose coal product in 1900 was less than that of 1809. Owing to the strike in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania in the autumn of 1300 the production of anthracite coal decreased about 3,000,000 long tons, the product in 1900 being 50,988,982 long tons, against 53,944,647 long tons in 1899. This decrease was more than made up for by an increase of nearly 5,500,000 short tons (about 4,900,000 long tons) in the output of bituminous coal in the state. The decrease in Maryland amounted to 782,708 short tons, or over 15 per cent, and in Oregon to 33 1-3 per cent of the product in 1899. West Virginia showed the largest increase in tonnage, her output exceeding 20,000,000 tons for the first time. The next largest gain was an increase of 2,605,138 short tons in Ohio. The net gain in Pennsylvania amounted to 2,150,000 short tons, Alabama gained 800,000 tons, or 11 per cent, The most notable comparative gains were made in Arkansas, the Indian territory, Michigan and Utah. Kansas increased her Michigan and Ctan. Kansas increased her production 600,000 tons, or 16 per cent, and Kentucky 575,000 tons, or 12 per cent.

Prior to 1809 Great Britain was the leading coal producing country of the world, but in that year the United States took first place. The production of Great Britain in 1909 amounted to 225,170,163 long tons, or 252,190,573 short tons, compared with which the United States has a lead of 15,-300,000 short tons, or just double that of the Demand for Strong, Cheap Lamps. Consul General Guenther at Frankfort Germany, informs the State Department that there is a strong demand for cheap simply constructed lamps in British India. He also says that the old means of lighting are being rapidly superseded by mod-ern methods, and that manufacturers of cheap lamps may find it to their interest to correspond with importing firms at Cal-cutta and Bombay.

Chesapeake Beach was the objective point today of about eighteen hundred excursionists, including employes of the Washington Traction and Electric Company and their friends. Three thousand tickets for the excursion were issued, and it was estimated by those in charge of their disposal that two-thirds of that amount had been sold. The attractions of the beach were supplemented by a game of base ball between a select nine of the Washington fire department and the experts in that line from among the motor-men and conductors of the traction company. Bathing attracted many of the excursionists, while the shade of the big trees adjacent to the casino, where Haley's full band discoursed music throughout the day, offered restful comfort to many. The trains throughout the day all carried large crowds, and the estimate was made that
